In the case of writting theoretical bachelor thesis

Introduction: introduction of the theme of the concerned problem in a broader context and an indication of its justification, the state of the solved problem at present, defining the objectives of the bachelor thesis.

The core of the thesis: should contain theoretical part and discussion. The theoretical part provides an analytical overview of the findings to date on the selected topic and how the problem has been explored so far. This part requires an in-depth elaboration based on the knowledge of relevant domestic and foreign literature. In this section it is necessary to use the correct citation technique.

Conclusion: summary of the results of the work and brief evaluation of its importance. In this part of the thesis it is necessary to declare whether the pre-set goals have been achieved. It is also necessary to point out the problems that could not be solved in the individual parts of the bachelor thesis and, if possible, the author should suggest a way of solving them for practice.
